CHANGING LIVES THROUGH WOMENINVEST: STORIES OF IMPACT

ECONOMIC OPPORTUNITY

Self-Help Credit Union - Women & Children Term Certificate

Self-Help Credit Union supports women who are building assets by opening their first savings accounts, starting their own businesses or buying homes. Self-Help also lends to child-care providers and finances facilities for public charter schools that serve low-income students. This support has resulted in women holding 39% of total credit union loans and more than 1,200 loans to woman-owned businesses. Childcare loans have created or maintained more than 23,000 spaces for children in child care, mostly for low-income children. Public charter school loans have helped create facilities for more than 42,000 students, with a focus on communities that lack quality educational choices.

Changing Lives. Sugar Creek Charter School, a K-8 charter school based in Charlotte, North Carolina, has received three loans totaling more than $15 million from Self-Help Credit Union. Through this funding, Sugar Creek has been able to purchase and renovate its school facility, build equity and lower facility costs, and acquire a gym and additional land surrounding the school. The school serves an at-risk student population with more than 98% students of color, 93% free and reduced lunch eligible, and 27% students with disabilities. Its gender breakdown is 51% female and 49% male out of a total of 1,438 students. In its 16 years of operation, Sugar Creek has demonstrated that students from generational poverty can be academically successful.

ACCESS TO EDUCATION

Women Investing in Women (WIN-WIN) Initiative/Calvert Foundation

Calvert Foundation's WIN-WIN project has enabled more than 800 individual and institutional investors to empower women with their investment dollars. In 2012, Calvert Foundation launched its WIN-WIN initiative, focusing investments on organizations that empower women across portfolio impact sectors, which includes affordable housing, microfinance and healthcare. Through collection of impact data from organizations within the portfolio, a correlation between women's empowerment and their access to clean energy has been documented. In 2014 the WIN-WIN initiative shifted its focus to the development and distribution of clean energy technologies in off-grid communities in developing countries. Through increased access to clean cook stoves, women benefit from reduced indoor air pollution and through solar lanterns, there's more time for studying and education.

Changing Lives. Many students in off-grid communities are limited to working only during the day, when there's daylight. When they get home in the evening, these students struggle to complete their homework. Through an investment in Essential Capital Consortium, Calvert WIN-WIN supports social enterprises like Mobisol that produce and distribute affordable lighting appliances.

AFFORDABLE HOUSING

Boston Community Capital Stabilizing Urban Neighborhood (SUN) Initiative is a foreclosure prevention program that works to prevent the displacement of families and the neighborhood destabilizing effects of vacancy and abandonment. SUN acquires foreclosed properties before evictions occur and resell these homes to their existing occupants with mortgages they can afford. Since late 2009, SUN Initiative has kept over 800 families facing foreclosure in their homes, reducing their monthly mortgage payments and principal balances, on average, by 35%. Women represent half of SUN primary borrowers. In economic downturns, incidents of domestic violence increase exponentially. Factors associated with economic downturns such as job loss, housing foreclosures or debt can contribute to higher stress levels at home, which can lead to increased violence.

Community Capital CRA Fund (CRANX) is a market-rate bond fund investing in high-credit quality U.S. fixed income securities with proceeds supporting vital community development activities, including:

- Enterprise development;
- Job creation programs for women, minorities, immigrants, people of color;
- Affordable healthcare; and
- Access to capital for underserved demographics.

Investors in the CRA Fund receive the benefit of a diversified mutual fund. InFaith's investment specifically targets a New York City Housing Finance Agency Housing Bond (federally taxable), which finances Barrier Free Living Residences, a 120-unit affordable housing property complex with housing for residents earning 60% or below the area median income with a preference for disabled, survivors of domestic abuse and the homeless.

Changing Lives. Upon completion, the Barrier Free Living Residences in Bronx, New York, will be the nation's largest provider of domestic violence intervention services for victims with disabilities. One building in the complex will provide 51 apartments for families where the head of household is a survivor of domestic violence. Another building will provide 70 apartments dedicated to individuals with disabilities who are survivors of domestic violence, severely disabled women who are in a nursing home diversion program and women who are disabled veterans.

This project, which replaces an abandoned incomplete construction site, has been an eyesore to the community for years. Both buildings will be equipped with 24/7 security and surveillance. Barrier Free Living is nationally recognized as the first fully accessible emergency shelter for disabled victims of domestic violence. Their state-of-the-art programming includes safety planning, parenting skill building, advocacy and working with people with physical and emotional disabilities and those recovering from substance abuse.
