

GIVING TO CHARITIES LATER, UPON DEATH

Your will, beneficiary proceeds or trust, provide a simple, flexible way to act on your values and charitable interests.

Your assets, whether they're IRAs or other qualified retirement assets, life insurance, annuities, investments or real estate, provide an opportunity to support charities and causes that mean the most to you. InFaith Community Foundation is here to help.

Sharing all or a portion of these assets, you benefit in these ways:

1. You make a significant gift, oftentimes larger than what you could have made while living;
2. You maintain control of your assets while living and have the flexibility to make changes as needed; and
3. Through a donor advised fund, your gift supports multiple charities through one simple designation.

WAYS TO GIVE

Bequests Through Your Will. You can give assets such as stocks, bonds or real estate through your will or revocable trust. Upon your death, these assets are removed from your estate, thereby reducing related estate taxes. You can designate: 1) a percentage of your estate; 2) a specific dollar amount or asset; 3) a remainder amount after other beneficiaries have been paid; or 4) InFaith as a contingent beneficiary.

Beneficiary Proceeds. It's easy to designate InFaith as beneficiary of your IRA or other qualified retirement plan, annuity or life insurance. Simply complete the beneficiary form for the assets you wish to give. Your heirs avoid paying income taxes on assets given to InFaith and the value of your estate is reduced for estate tax purposes. You can designate all or a percentage of the assets, or name InFaith as contingent beneficiary. Another advantage is that you don't need to pay attorney fees to put these plans in place.

BENEFITS OF GIVING

When you give through InFaith, your donor advised fund supports charities and causes of your choosing:

- Name multiple charities or causes to benefit.
- Make charity changes simply by contacting InFaith.
- Remain anonymous to benefiting charities if you wish.
- Include family, friends and future generations as successor advisors to carry on your giving legacy.

We'll make the most of your charitable gifts to achieve your charitable goals.

DONOR STORY

The Donors: A couple, 66 and 72, wanted to share what's left of their assets (upon death) with their adult children, church and other favorite charities. They're aware IRA assets inherited by family are subject to income tax and possibly estate tax.

Their Gift: They named InFaith as beneficiary of their IRAs and established a donor advised fund to support their church and two additional charities. Their adult children are named in their wills to receive the remaining assets from the estate.

Charitable giving can result in significant tax, legal and financial consequences. Because InFaith Community Foundation cannot give tax or legal advice, you are strongly encouraged to consult with your personal tax and legal advisors.
